THE THIRTEENTH COLTS GO DOWN A LUCKY GAME

Virginia Outclasses the George Washington Téam.

HUTCHINSON BATTED AT WILL SPIT-BALL ARTIST.

Eleven Virginians Romp Across The Game Was Enjoyed by a the Plate in Single Inning.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., April 19. Virginia won her thirteenth game to-day. snowing under George Washington University by the one-sided score of 22 to 1. Southpaw Hutchinson, who started in to twirl for the visitors, was batted out of the box in the fourth inning, after a total of eleven runs had been scored off his Gelivery. Carr, who succeeded him, held Virginia down in the fifth to one run, but was hit freely from then on, especially in the sixth inning, when nine Virginians remped across the home plate.

especially in the sixt filling, when the plate. Every member of the Virginia team save Captain Stückey landed on the ball, Masson, White and Council getting three hits aplece, each securing a two-bagger.

Bradley scored the only run made by George Washington. He reached first on Cracraft's error, stole second, went to third on a passed ball, and tallied on Stevenson's single between first and second. In the first inning Price, the first batsman up, lined out a hot grounder, which eluded three of Virginia's fielders and neited him three bases, but remained anchored on third. The fielding of the George Washington team was exceedingly ragged, errors allowing nine of the opposing batsmen to reach first. A redeeming feature of the work of the visitors, however, was a spectacular catch of Coles's fly back of short-stop by Bielaski, who threw to Vau Vilet, completing a double.

Cole pitched a steady game for Virginia, and after the fourth inning did not allow a hit. He struck out seven and

IN DIRE DEFEAT

Fulton Boys Jump on Elliott in the Third In-Large Crowd of Rooters.

The Brownles got on to Elliott's spli balls in the third inning yesterday to the tune of five hits, and it was all off, so cerned. Up to this point, and after that inning, the game was Manchester's, for the boys from the southside had the best of it in the way of hits as the game went. But the whole story of the crushing defent centers in the third inning. At the end of the Colts' half, the score stood four to three against the Brownles. Eacho was the first man up for the Brownles in the third was the first man up for the Brownles in the treatment of fonnect with Elliott's curves. He couldn't do it, and retired, and Albert Anthony smiled as Pop Elliott tossed one to Mc-Evoy, the next man up. That's where the Colts got on the toboggan. McEvoy binged a little one down to Houchins, who fumbled. That put Elliott out of business for a time, and he went up in the air. Sharp hit for two sacks, Mc-Leavy singled, and McEvoy scored. Then Hulcher walked, and the bases were full, with one man out. Big Winston took up the paddle and the crowd shouted to him to do something and break the tie. He not only broke the tie, but he broke the heart of the Colts' manager, who had bet a cigar that his team would win. Winston' hit in deep field for two bases, and sent three men in ahead of him. He was put out himself, however, on the attempt to steal from third. But that wasn't all, Cheatham singled, went to second on a tad throw, stole third, and scored on Bigble's single. Hicks was retired, and the agony was over.

After that the Colts settled down and did some very good work, but they could never overcome the awful lead the Up to this point, and after that inning, the game was Manchester's, for did some very good work, but they could never overcome the awful lead the Brownies had secured.

How the Runs Were Made. In the first, with two men out, John Anthony got to first base on a choice, and scored on Albert Anthony's single and Edwards's double. In the second Leake, Elmore and Jennings singled, resulting in a score. A. Anthony caught first in the third on Hicks's error, and Edwards hit for two bases, both men scoring on chances. The next run was made in the fifth. A. Anthony walked, went to third on Edwards's third two-bager. made in the fifth. A. Anthony walked, went to third on Edwards's third two-bagger, and scored on a choles. Jennings scored in the sixth; he safed on a choles and tallied on the hits by the Anthonys. That was the sixth and last run for the Colts.

That was the sixth and last run for the Colts.

Cheatham went up first for the Brownles and singled. He swiped second, went to third on Houchins's error, and stole home when the Colts' battery were trying to get together, on signals. In the second Sharp was given four bad ones. He got to second on the ottempt to put him out on McLeavy's dink, and the latter also safed. Then both men scored on Bigble's hit. Next came the Waterloo, in which the five runs referred to were made. Eacho, after falling twice to connect, landed safely in the fourth, stole one bag, and scored on choices. The next run was made in the seventh. Edwards errored in handling McLeavy's grounder, and before the next three were out the catcher had scored. Eacho got another run in the eighth. He was presented with his first and scored on a wild pitch and a little dumb playing on the part of a portion of the Colts' infield.
